Courtesy is often called good manners. The “Camping Courtesies” at Bear Bottom Campground include many rules that considerate, polite campers follow to be courteous to their neighbours.

Getting along with neighbours when camping or at home is important. Unfortunately, not everyone is courteous in their neighbourhood.

What should people do or not do in your neighbourhood?

Write a list of rules for neighbours in your community.

- Make a title for your list.
 - Keep your title short.
 - A title should not be a sentence.
- Capitalize the first letter of each content word in your title.
- Format your list with numbers, bullets, or letters.
- Include two or three obligations. Use imperatives.
- Include two or three prohibitions. Use negative modal verbs: must, should, or ought to.
- Include two or three permissions. Use may.
